Mick,

As per your request below, I have attached a file called "Vendor Spend.xls" showing vendor spend for the incident through November 2, 2010. This file contains a "Raw Data" tab that reflects all spend for over 3,000 vendors totaling approximately $11b. The tab labeled "Top 100 Spend" has been scrubbed to consolidate vendor names that were duplicated in SAP due to various naming conventions for the same vendors so that their totals are more accurately reflected (i.e., Schlumberger Technology and Schlumberger Technology Corp are combined into one total on the "Top 100 Spend" sheet). This list includes the large aggregators like MSRC, Obriens, Danos and Curole, NRC, etc.

Vendor
Spend.ZIP (118 K)

You requested a view of the top 50 vendors, below is a breakdown at various other vendor count levels for your consideration as reasonable alternatives:

- ~100 Vendors with spend exceeding $12mm
- ~75 Vendors with spend exceeding $20mm
- ~50 Vendors with spend exceeding $40mm
- ~25 Vendors with spend exceeding $85mm

If you want to consider spend beyond the top 100 vendors and below the $12mm mark, we can scrub the raw data further to validate a larger cut. So please use caution if you decide to use the "Raw Data".

Let me know if you need anything further.

Regards,

John M. Cabiness

John:

Kevin mentioned that he was out on vacation, so how difficult would it be for you to pull the vendor spend for the response (say the top 50 or if there is another logical breaking point).

Call if you have any questions about this request.

Mick/Terry,

Not sure you want the attached list, however, it represents the companies that visited/worked in the Houston IMT response area, (tracked via badging).

There are 311 companies with possibly a few duplicates, some single entities,.... and minus govt entities. How do you want to short list?

I figured the title would get y'all reading this right away.

Here is the request - Mr. Dudley would like to send some thank you letters to those contractors who have been with us from the early days of this response and have stuck by us. My thought is that if we can start with a listing of who we have paid the most, we can then talk with the section chiefs and some of the response veterans and get a feel for scope and significance.

If someone can help me with the list I can take it from there.....
